Introduction

I consider myself a developer with experience as an individual contributor. I have played with web frontend and backend development, I have also played with DevOps tooling... In any case, my specialty is JavaScript development, both web and server-side. Lately, I have boosted my soft skills with emotional intelligence courses and other complementary tools. I am interested in working with startups that are reliable and fast-growing company. I would like to follow closely the technical side, but I aspire to a "Frontend Developer" or "Lead Frontend Developer" role.

My skills

Continuous learning

Attention to detail

Good verbal communication

My best practices

I understand and apply SOLID, KISS, YAGNI, DRY... Personally, it has been difficult for me to find a project in my career where TDD was a priority, although I consider testing an indispensable part of development and I always apply it, both unit and integration testing. I am used to working in high performance teams, applying continuous CD/CI. Last but not least, I have worked in SCRUM and other agile methodologies, although I prefer a KANBAN system.
